

What the archaeologists found

Bronze Age - spear head
Roman - coins and pin

Anglo-saxon - pottery, saddle

Medieval - coins and buckles

Tudor - coin and buckle
11.

Le,

Keydowne time Line

THE STORY ABOUT THE PERSON THAT DROPPED THE COIN

One day a Roman Emperor called Julius Caesar was walking along a field and dropped a coin. The Roman Emperor was there because he wanted to rule England.

That coin was never to be seen again until one day long after the Romans were there, some archaeologists dug it up. Where the Roman Emperor dropped the coin, there was going to be a road built - Leybourne Bypass. And before the Leybourne Bypass was built the Romans built roads.

By
Archie Godfrey

13